Sample Pareto Chart

Pareto Principle

aka the 80/20 Rule

Specifies that 80% of consequences come from 20% of the causes, serving as a reminder that the relationship between inputs and outputs is not balanced

Formula

Total number of defects found in a sample

Sample size x Number of defect opportunities per unit in the sample

$$\begin{array}{c} \mathbf{x} \\ 1,000,000 \\ = \\ \mathbf{DPMO} \end{array}$$

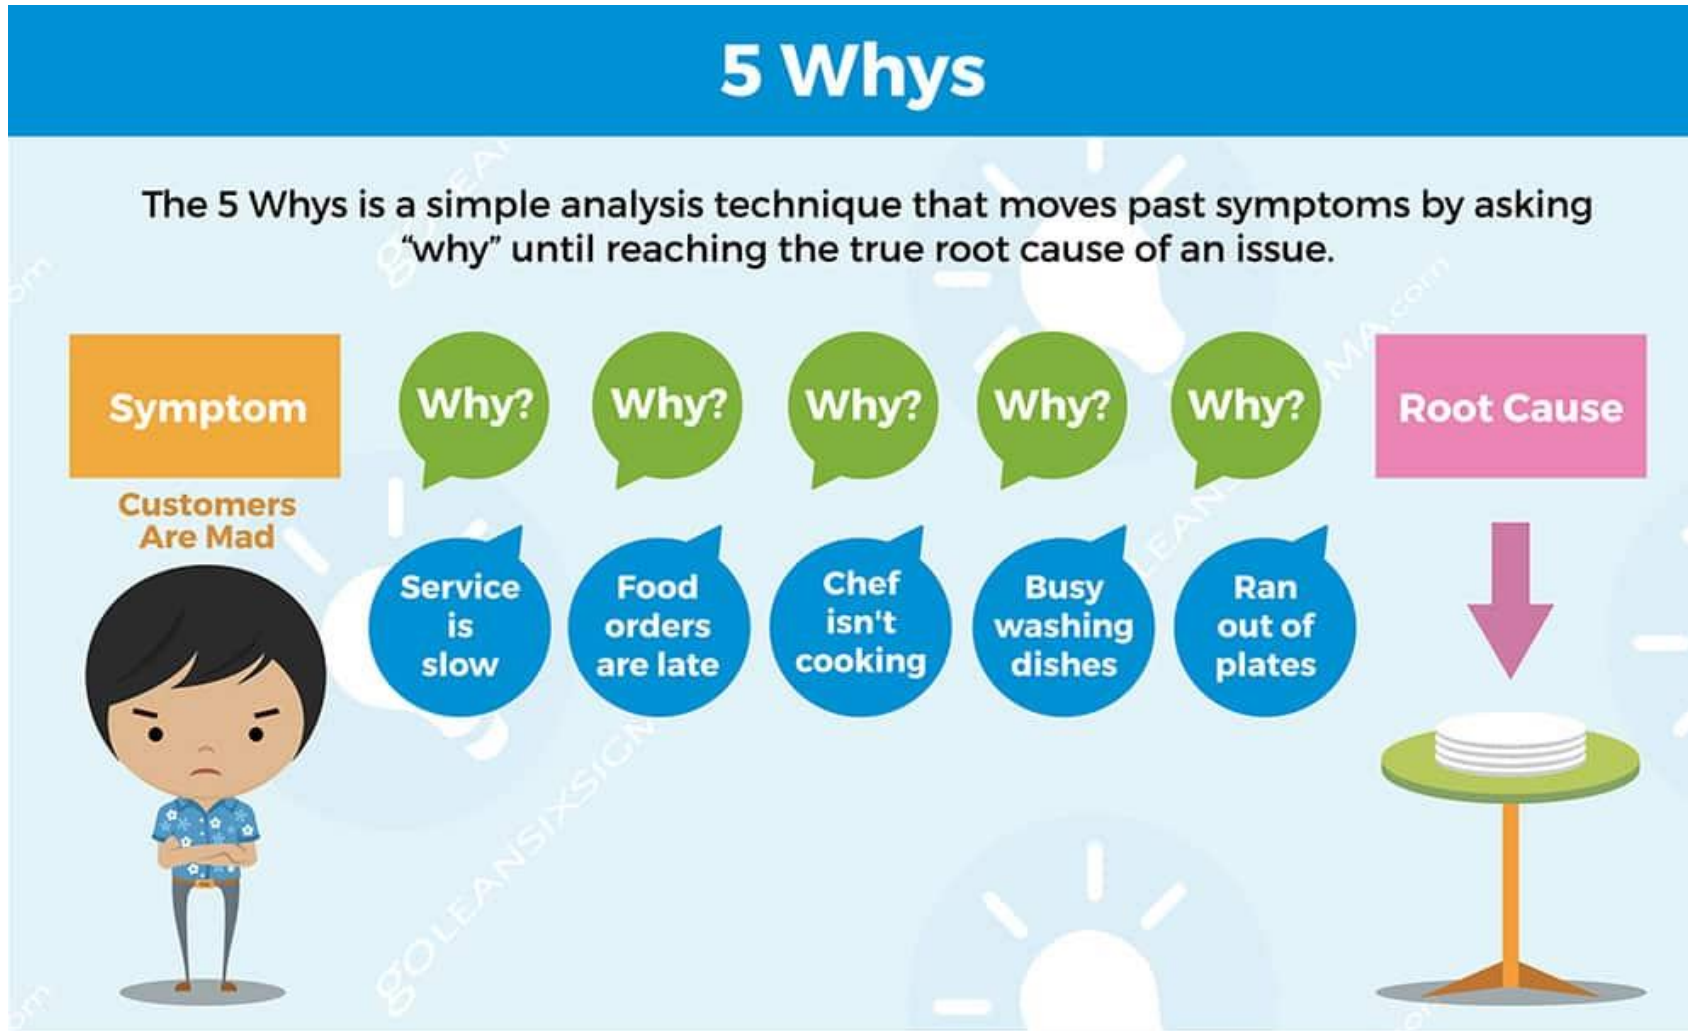

3.4

Highly capable processes – processes of Six Sigma quality – are those with fewer than 3.4 DPMO

DPMO

Defects Per Million Opportunities
Defects are defined as a non-conformance of a quality characteristic to its specification.

5 Whys and Root Cause Analysis

Root Cause Analysis

Collection of tools and processes used to determine the most important causes for the issue we are trying to resolve

Poka Yoke (poh-kah-yoh-keh)

Poka Yoke

Used to design processes so that defects are almost impossible

- ≠ finding or correcting mistakes in a process
- = preventing them from ever being made

Translating the Process into Improvements

The Process

Problem Statement	Describe the defect
Pareto and DPMO	Determine where the defect is caused
5 Whys	Analyze the process in which the defect is found
Root Cause Analysis	Identify the underlying reason for the defect
Poka Yoke	Devise a solution and make sure the defect cannot be made again

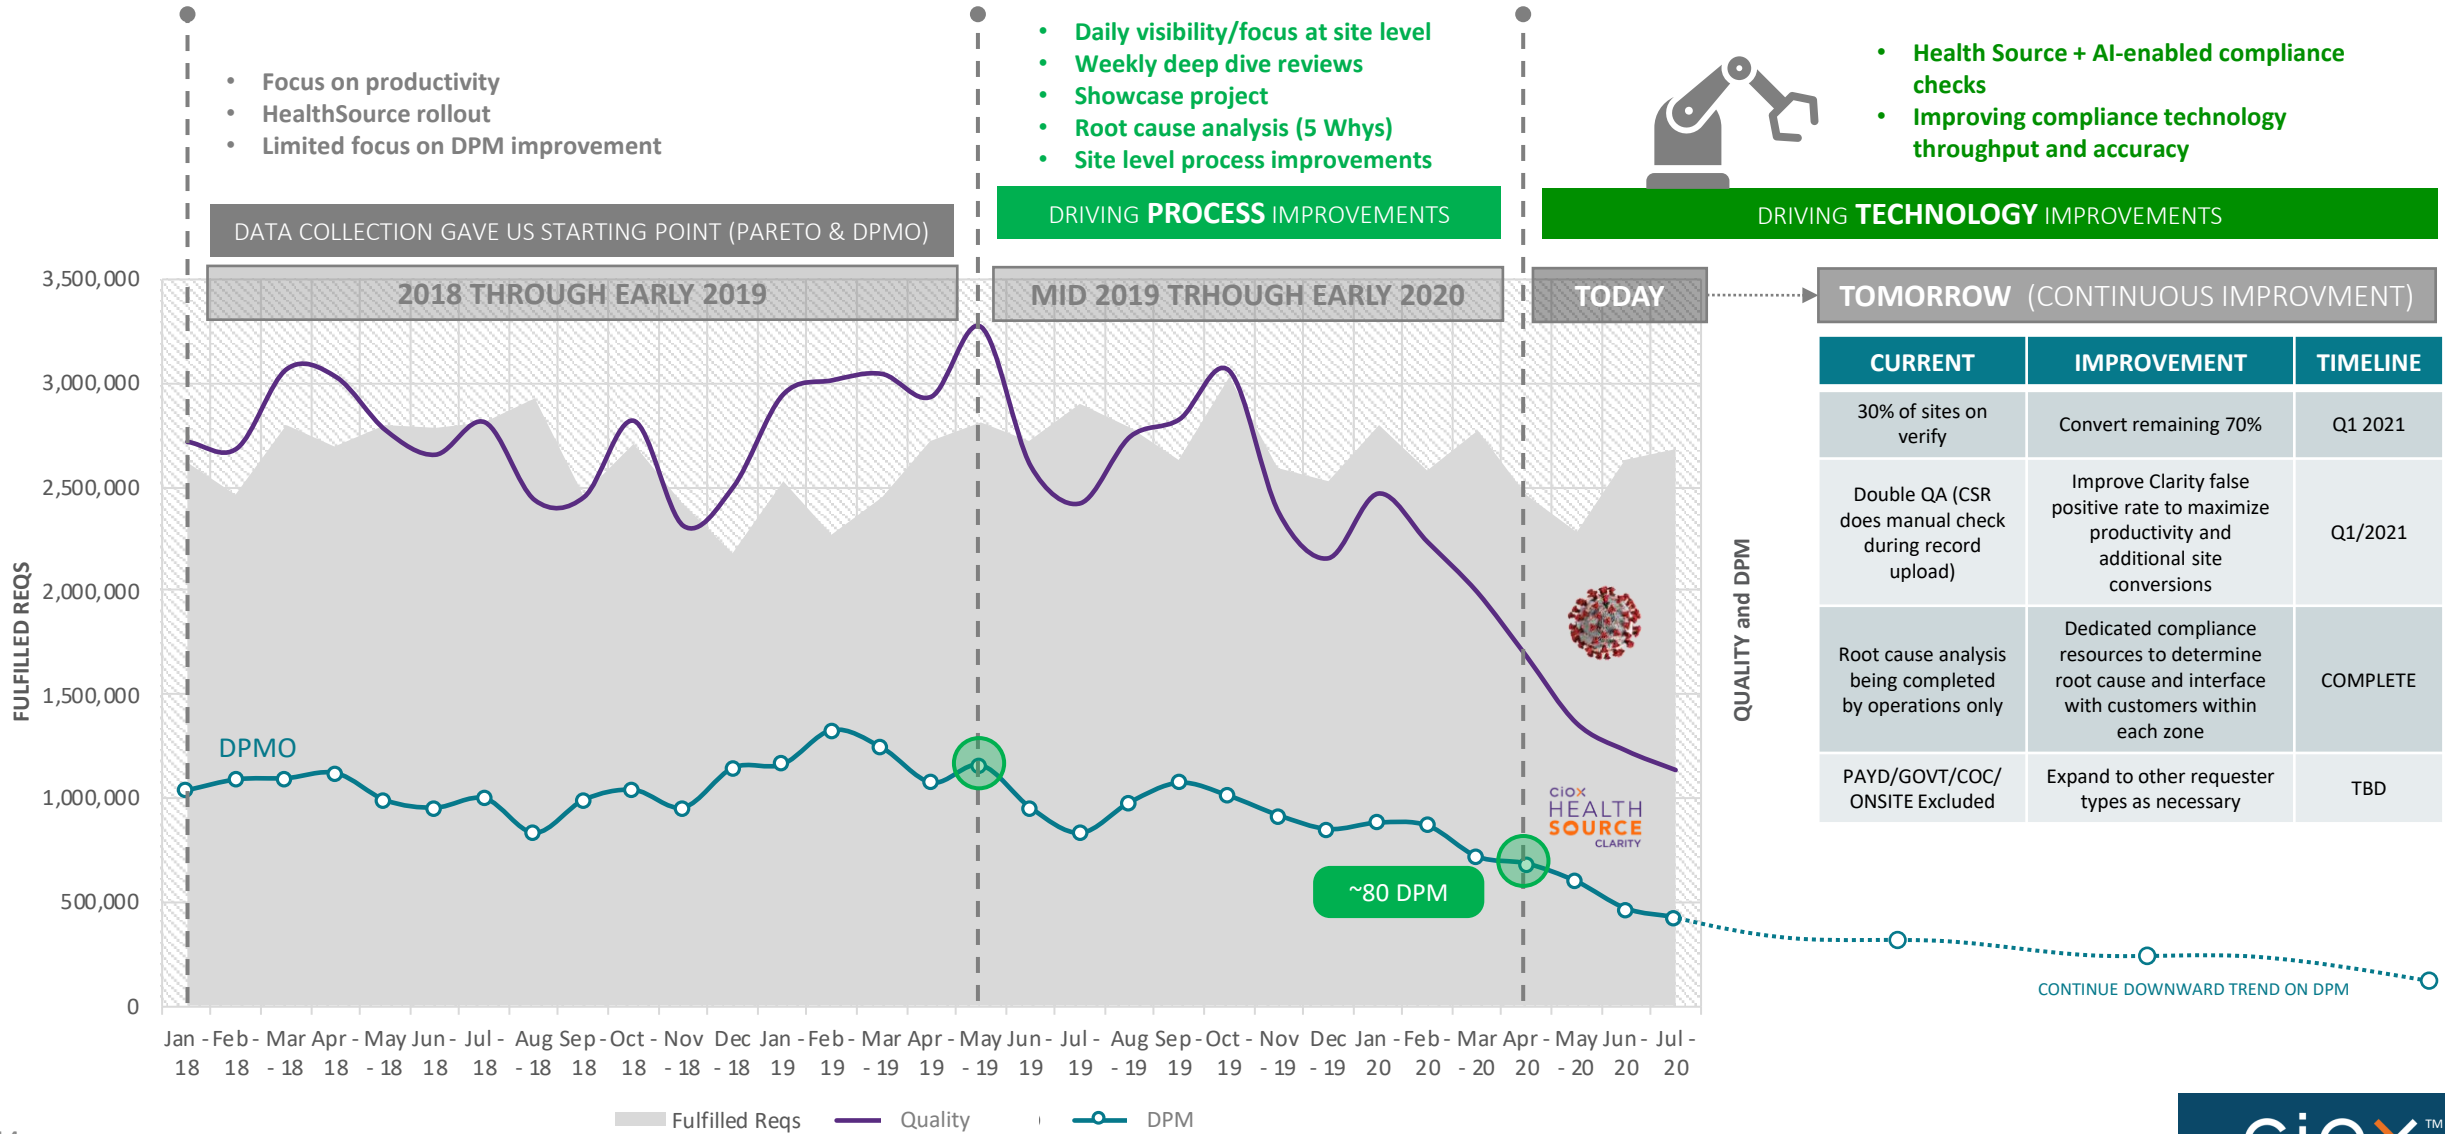

Where we started – quality in 2018-2019

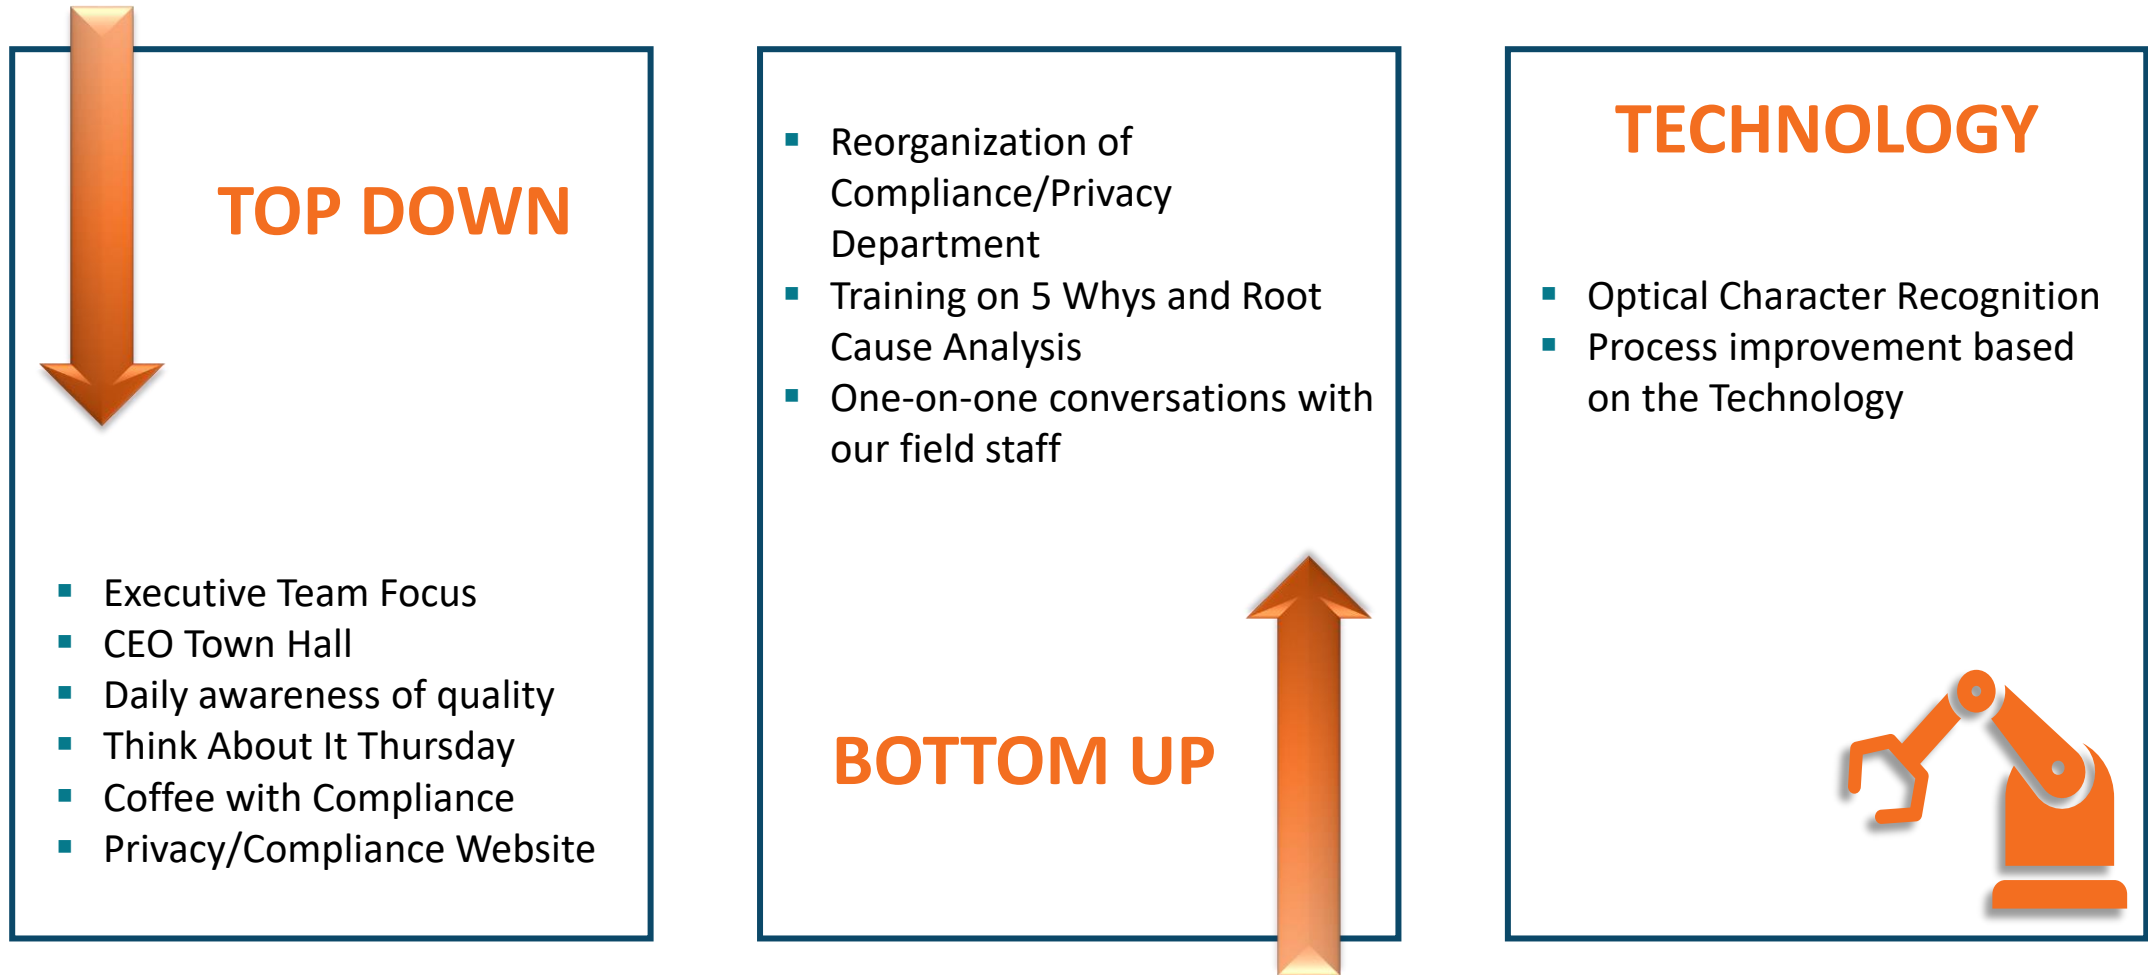

Problem Statement:

Quality causes customer abrasion and attrition and quality incidents per million requests are historically high
